dpatel@fwlaw.com

Dipak has deep experience representing both businesses and individuals in civil litigation, employment law, and complex commercial law. He offers practical advice on all aspects of the employment relationship and serves as litigation counsel when disputes arise.

Dipak regularly represents companies and their owners in agency proceedings and in court, and also assists individuals with severance agreements, discrimination claims, and wage disputes. He frequently advises clients in severance negotiations, providing nuanced analysis of employment policies, non-compete and non-solicitation provisions, and confidentiality agreements. His professionalism and ethical approach have earned him the respect of clients and peers alike.

His diverse client base has included a fast-growing organic food startup, one of the world's 50 fastest-growing woman-owned companies, and a leading oil and gas consulting business. Across industries, Dipak provides creative legal solutions, practical industry insight, and efficient, cost-effective representation.

Originally from Los Angeles, Dipak has lived and studied in Toronto, Columbus, Oxford, Paris, and Geneva. Outside the office, he enjoys spending time with his daughter and training for IronMan triathlons.
