JDouglass@fwlaw.com

Jan works with her clients to advise them on a wide range of corporate and real estate matters to help them achieve their goals. She has deep experience representing businesses and entrepreneurs through all stages of an organization's life cycle, including starting a new business, expanding an existing business, developing exit strategies, or restructurings. She helps her clients with all of the moving parts related to these stages, including entity formation and governance, governmental compliance, employment issues, mergers and acquisitions, joint ventures, private financing, investor offerings, executive or employee incentive plans, real estate transactions, lease agreements, landlord/tenant relations, and estate planning and probate matters.

In addition, Jan has developed a niche in advising business owners, entrepreneurs, and investors in navigating complex state, local, and national licensing, compliance, and regulatory matters in highly regulated industries such as liquor, agricultural, cannabis, CBD, HEMP, and other related industries.

Jan has worked in private practice at law firms in Denver as well as in-house counsel for multiple companies. She draws on this unique perspective to offer her clients a well-rounded approach to efficiently and effectively assist them with their needs.
