

Software and Technology

Our software and technology clients are experts in the development of exciting and novel approaches to solve the needs of their customers. We work with our clients to finance, protect and commercialize software and technology development. Our clients finance development through venture capital, private equity, and traditional debt and equity sources. We also assist our software and technology clients in protecting their valuable intellectual property (their copyrights, trade secrets, patents, and trademarks) through employment agreements, non-disclosure agreements and technology transfer agreements. We work with our clients on mobile application development, privacy issues, and advertising issues. Our clients commercialize their software and technology by licensing, direct sales, traditional software licensing and maintenance agreements, as well as by offering software as a service (SaaS).

Some of the areas in which we work with our software and technology clients follow:

- Software development agreements
- Software maintenance agreements
- Non-disclosure agreements
- Trade secret protection
- Software copyrights
- Service level agreements
- Software licenses
- Software as a service
- Open source software license
- Source code escrow
- Click through agreements
